This Hybrid and Electric Vehicle book, now in its 10th version, is written by Craig Van Batenburg, who for 25 years was repairing vehicles at his independent repair shop adding HEVs in 2000. Today the 2013 edition is packed with chapters on every hybrid and electric vehicle sold in North America along with popular European models. EVs are included along with charts on HV battery location, battery voltage levels, service plug locations, service mode, and much more. An air conditioning section has been added, as well as a section on home chargers for electric cars. Designed as a technician's time saver, only ACDC has this knowledge consolidated in one place for all models. The beginning of the book explains, in simple technician language, what makes a hybrid different from a conventional car. Safety is covered in great detail. Even "Do-It-Yourselfers" will find this book very helpful as it keeps them busy on their HEV, but leaves for the professional, the work that is safer or too technical for the average DIY. The book has more than 330-pages and is bound to lie flat on a workbench for easy reading. This book does NOT take the place of service information, like a shop manual or Internet OEM information. What it does, is make the service information understandable by using common 12-volt language and a glossary so that well-trained 12-volt technicians can make the transition to high-voltage quickly, and with less confusion. ACDC is proud of this publication and ships worldwide. Pablo and his wife have five children. As they like traveling by road with the whole family, often including the grandparents, they decided to buy a German van with nine seats. On October 24, 2005, Pablo took the van to the a dealer to have the spare key repaired. But the spare key was not ready until 5 weeks later. Pablo sent this case to the CEO in Spain of the carmaker and he got the following reply: Having read very carefully what you grandly describe as case, I have the following comments to make: I recommend that in future... you use the official complaints form or get in touch with customer service. The action of posting your 'case' ... seems to obey demagogic or exhibitionistic instincts rather than the ethical precepts to be expected of a professor. Certainly, at Northwestern University, where I did my postgraduate work, the Ethics Committee would never have allowed faculty to give students a personal case. What action plan would you recommend to Pablo? Keep all your vehicle information in one handy book. Running a chop shop with five other women was never Linda's idea of a career choice. Then her husband died and she was left with his auto repair shop and scrap yard. No one believed that she could make a go of it. But Helen had a plan. They could all make a good living by stealing cars and selling the parts to the highest bidder. Now Linda's new love, Bill, was getting suspicious. When she got the call about the shooting, she knew everyone in the Club was in danger. And what would Bill do if he found out the truth about her and his mother?
